Letter from the Founder of Bargemusic On her 90th Birthday

For over 30 years we have shared the ultimate expression of love-music.

As I approach my 90th birthday, on April 2nd, it is natural to consider the significance of these years which is essentially the generosity of composers, performers, and listeners.

Thank you dear hearts for your participation!

And thanks to Mark Peskanov whose profound comprehension of our social adventure promises to guide us beyond my time.

Yours,

The Century Has Turned: Although separated by a mere 23 years, the Klughardt and Schoenberg quintets seem to be nearly a century removed in style. Klughardt's sunny C Major quintet of 1901 clearly looks backward for its inspiration, drawing on lighter romantic tones, while Schoenberg's monolithic quintet of 1924—his first work composed in the twelve-tone style—propels us forward in musical history. The juxtaposition of these seemingly-disparate works provides the listener an interesting window into the fast-changing musical times of the early 20th Century which have deeply influenced all music since.
